

Most Influential Family Owned Businesses 2019: KINGS ARCH

Custom Content by the Los Angeles Business Journal

Wednesday, October 30, 2019

Share

Tweet

KING'S ARCH

Beverly Hills

King's Arch is a nationwide pioneer in the field of creative office development. With roots in Midtown Manhattan, first as an ancillary business and then formally established in Beverly Hills as a primary investment vehicle, King's Arch began providing urban businesses with that "East Village" look long before the term creative space was mainstream. Family patriarch and chairman of the board, Jack Shamooilian, has been an admirable steward of the enterprise.

Today, King's Arch holds a portfolio of cutting-edge creative office projects with a vertically integrated platform including management, construction, and leasing. Tenants hail from a diverse range of industries including major entertainment, celebrity driven, and media firms, financial institutions, regional powerhouse medical groups, and even political organizations including home base for a major presidential campaign. What is most impressive about this family firm is its ability to maintain a strongly family-centric atmosphere even among non-shareholders.